

UNIVERSITY OF PITTSBURGH SCHOOL OF MEDICINE | SUMMER 2008

PITTMED

A newborn baby is the central focus, wrapped in a thin, translucent, ethereal veil that appears to be made of a fine, fibrous material. The baby's face is partially visible through the fabric, with eyes closed. Two hands are seen holding the edges of the veil, one near the top left and another near the bottom right, as if lifting or adjusting it. The lighting is dramatic, with a strong warm glow on the baby's face and the veil, set against a dark, almost black background. The overall mood is one of mystery and wonder.

SHOWTIME

LIFTING THE VEIL ON THE MOLECULAR MASTERPIECE THAT IS LIFE